

The content on this website and all related materials provided by Valden Systems are for general informational purposes only.

Nothing provided by Valden Systems constitutes personalized financial, investment, or trading advice, portfolio management, or a recommendation, offer, or solicitation to buy or sell any financial instrument.

Valden Systems provides software and automation tools. Users remain responsible for their own decisions regarding whether and how to trade and use the provided software.

Past performance, including backtests, forward tests, or live results, is not indicative of future performance. No particular trading result or level of profitability is guaranteed.

Trading foreign exchange, CFDs, and other leveraged financial products involves substantial risk and may result in partial or complete loss of the capital allocated to trading.

To the extent permitted by applicable law, Valden Systems is not responsible for trading losses or other losses resulting from trading decisions, market movements, third-party systems, or use of the software contrary to the provided instructions. Nothing in this Disclaimer excludes or limits liability where such exclusion or limitation is prohibited by applicable law.

For complete information regarding trading risks, users should review the Valden Systems Risk Disclosure and Terms of Sale.

Last updated: August 2026